Letter from Syria

BY A. S. BARKETT

Judith, Margoon,
Syria, Turkey.

April 5th, 1911

Dear Speer & Sexton,
Hickman, Ky., U. S. A.

Dear Friends:

It has been several weeks since I wrote you last, not because I have forgotten you or your readers, for all of you are my best friends whom I think of every day, but because I haven't done any travelling since I wrote last on account of bad weather. We have had in this country, and which the older inhabitants say has happened before in twenty-five years. But now the weather is getting warm and the grass is putting out fast, which makes the country look green and nice. Wish about ten of my Hickman friends could be with us on our great and fat trip in Syria, which begins April 10th. We will start on our journey to and through the land where our Saviour Jesus Christ traveled. Our company will be composed of myself and wife, my mother, Mabel Antle, and the little baby, and one man to guide who is familiar with every foot of the country. We are going by Jacob's well, Lake Haula, into Tybela, where we will spend about four days, then in to Nazareth, going all over that country until we get to Jerusalem, where we will spend a whole week. I will write you every week about where we go and what we see, and what happens to us. In full I will give you the names of each town, village, plantation, and what kind of people live in them. That is I will give the details in full of everything we come in contact with. All I ask of you is to give me full space in the dear Courier, so all of your and friends can read it word by word. I know you all enjoy such news from far away friends who hope to be a mong you in the near future.

We were all greatly delighted when my cousin, Albert Barkett, got back to this country safely and brought us the good news about the great success, good health and prosperity of our home friends and home folks in Hickman and Fulton county. Such news gives us great joy and satisfaction until we meet you all again in Hickman. Our cousin brought us several good words from our friends who all are good personal friends, whom I think of daily.

Let me thank you again for our great Courier, which comes to us in the form of great consolation to our hearts and minds in this far away country. The news we receive from you is very promising in every way. I am afraid we won't know our home town when we reach it from the many buildings and great improvements which are going on daily, such as the new railroad, the new levee, the new houses, the new stores, the new factories and additions and the newly opened farms in the bottom. I wish from the depth of my heart that Hickman, my home, will become as large as Chicago inside of twenty-five years, by the help of God and her citizens. So let us all keep going until we are where we want to be and if we keep that up we are certain to get there.

The only thing you forgot to mention, and it is of great interest to me, is the news about the farmers, especially the bottom farmers. I hope they have good prospects for fine crops.

I have no news of any importance to tell you about this country now except the farmers are getting their land ready to plant corn, the fruit trees are all in bloom and the people of this town are doing a lot of shopping, getting ready for Easter, which they celebrate more than Americans celebrate Christmas, more especially the children. Their parents buy for them new things out and out, shoes, clothes and caps, few toys, lots of candy and give them some money, so you hear all the children talking about Easter and what they are going to get and wish for it to come soon.

This town is composed of Greek Orthodox and Greek Catholics mostly and their is one week difference between them. The Catholic Easter is on April 16 and the Orthodox is on the 23rd. I hope both will enjoy a happy Easter.

Please excuse this short letter, the next one will be four times longer. I will close with best wishes to you all and to each and every one of your readers who are all dear friends to me and my family.

Your friend,

A. S. BARKETT

The little 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Morrow, in East Hickman, was badly burned one day last week. The little tot was left alone in the house for a short time and evidently ignited his clothing while playing with matches. He was discovered by neighbors with his clothes in flames, and the fire promptly extinguished, but not before he was frightfully burned. Dr. Prather was summoned and administered medical aid. It is thought now that the child will live, as he seems to be resting as well as could be expected. His right arm, side, chest and face were badly burned.

The Courier wants all the local news in Fulton county, deaths, births, marriages, entertainments, visitors from abroad, etc., and will be obliged if people will notify us by calling at the office or telephoning a line.

Gen. H. A. Miss Anna Lynn Dodds entertained a number of her little friends with a musicale at her home Tuesday evening in compliment to Mrs. Boone, of Philadelphia. The program, of fifteen numbers, was exceptionally well rendered and highly entertaining. Mrs. Boone presented each of the performers with a handsome souvenir.

This month, each postmaster or his clerks, and each rural route carrier in the United States will for thirty days, count and weigh each piece of mail matter received by them coming in and going out. In addition to this the actual time spent in handling this mail matter must be kept account of. When the patrons of our local office remember that during the month of May the postmaster and clerks must weigh and count each letter, paper, package or box before delivering it, their impatience at having to "wait so long for the window to be opened" will not be so great.

A Splendid Showing.

It will surely be of interest to the people of Fulton County to learn of the success in the Hickman schools; a success not only in high enrollment which was 670 for the month of April, bidding fair to reach 700 before the end of the term shall have been reached, but also its graduates have made the finest of records. One of the many who have gone out from this school scored at the top honors in Vanderbilt University, another completed the four years course of the State University in three years, tying for the highest honors, also the young orator of this school won the declamatory contest of West Kentucky and Tennessee, bringing the gold medal home. This school, especially the High School, has as good advantages as any school in Western Kentucky. For instance, there is our Carnegie Library, through which the students receive the very best literature on all lines.

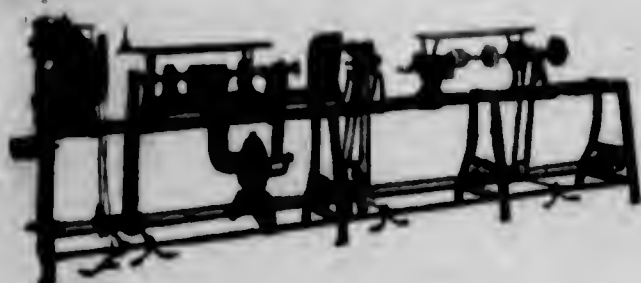

Hickman High School has certainly been improving the last few years and we trust that it will continue in its good work.

In Memoriam.

Jas. E. Atkins, well known among the older residents of the city, died on April 4th, after an illness of a few days resulting from a general decline.

Mr. Atkins was born in Robertson county, Tenn., Nov. 10, 1830. He came to West Tennessee in 1853 and settled at Hickman, Ky., where he remained until 1867. At Hickman he was engaged in the commission business, and in 1861 enlisted in the Confederacy under General Forrest, serving throughout the four years of the war.

He was taken prisoner while serving with a company of scouts near Memphis, and was a prisoner at Point Lookout, Maryland, at the close of the war.

In 1866 Mr. Atkins and Miss Nannie Wilson were united in marriage and of the union were two children, Alvin Cullom dying at the age of 17 years, and Mrs. Wright Pehus, now a resident of Union City.

Mr. Atkins became a member of the Christian Church in 1870 and was one of the members at the time and assisted in the building of the present church. Mr. Atkins was for the most of his life an active Master Mason and connected with the business and public affairs generally in Union City.

When the cholera broke out in 1873 Mr. Atkins sent his family away and remained at his post in Union City, assisting in the burial of the victims of the plague and otherwise alleviating their sufferings and distress. He was engaged in merchandising and furnished supplies to the afflicted families. The firm was J. E. Atkins & Co., Judge Lawson being one of the members.

When the cholera subsided Mr. Atkins was unable to continue merchandising on account of the calls made upon him for help, and since then he has lived a retired life in Union City.

Mr. Atkins was a man of plain speech but kind and sympathetic nature. He lived in the pioneer days and sustained hardships, but maintained through it all some of the better traits, a heart for his family and friends, sharing in the support of his church and in other public institutions. He leaves a widow, who was his devoted companion all these years and a daughter who will miss him. We extend our condolence.

Services were held at the residence on Wednesday morning, April 5, and the remains interred at East View. The pastor, Rev. Stuart, conducted the service.—Union City Commercial.

Carnival Coming.

The Davis Amusement Co., a carnival company of about 40 members, will make Hickman a noisy town next week. They will be here one week, beginning Monday the 8th and closing Saturday night the 13th.

The company is now at Martin, Tenn. Their program consists of the usual plantation shows, vaudeville, electric theatre, the Edna show, monkey land, etc. We have never heard of this company before and cannot say anything for or against. The advance agent claims it is one of the best on the road, and that they have a number of people with them who were here last fall with Campbell's United Shows.

Well, let 'er come; a few of our old folks haven't smiled since the last one. Get ready.

Peculiar Malady.

Mr. Chance and one of his children, living about three miles from town, as well as several others, are reported to have what is commonly known as "milk sick," which is the result of drinking milk that possesses a poison within. The trouble was not uncommon a few years back, but this is the first we have heard of for some time. It seems that a form of poison emanates from the grounds on which the cattle are pastured, and it not only kills the cow but frequently the persons who drink her milk. The recovery of Mr. Chance and his child is said to be doubtful. It has been noticed by experimenters that these "poison patches" usually cover only a small space—a few yards in measurement, and are generally on the high ground. Where this trouble prevails, the bad pasture should be located and fenced off from the rest. Several such places have been located on hills on the Dyersburg road, where milk sick caused much trouble years ago.

State Line.

T. A. Prather, Sr., has returned from a visit to Hixthville, Ark. Mrs. J. M. Linn visited her brother, Leo Maddox, at Terrell last week. Rose was in Fulton City Wednesday. E. G. Maddox and wife were in Fulton City one day last week. Howard Threlkeld has returned to school in Clinton after a short visit to his parents here. Mrs. Isaac Shuff and Miss Mary Shuff were in Fulton City Wednesday.

5 Per Cent Raise.

The State Board of Equalization has raised property values for taxation in Kentucky to $350,000,000, an increase of $22,000,000 over last year's assessment. The raises amount from 5 to 25 per cent in 52 counties, while 40 counties were left at the old rate. Every county in West Kentucky, known as a Democratic county, was raised over the report of the county supervisors. The heaviest increase is given Caldwell county, where farms and personalty both were raised 20 per cent. The first district counties were raised as follows:

County	Farms	Lots	Person
Ballard	15	15	15
Caldwell	20	0	20
Caloway	5	10	5
Carlisle	10	15	10
Crittenden	5	5	5
Fulton	5	5	5
Graves	5	0	5
Hickman	15	15	15
Livingston	5	5	5
Marshall	10	10	10
Lyon	5	5	5
McCracken	5	5	5
Trigg	10	10	10

Our county officers did their best to avert this increase but it came anyhow.

River Rising.

The river has been rising rapidly at Hickman for the past few days, and points above here. The Cairo gauge reads 36.1, a rise of 1.1 in the past 24 hours. The crest of the rise is expected to reach Hickman by Saturday, but will not exceed 38 feet. The report that we are to have as big water as we had two weeks ago is erroneous.

W. J. Elliott and J. M. Hardison were in Crutchfield Monday. Mrs. J. M. Roper, of State Line, was in town Wednesday shopping. Ed Griffith, aged 45, a Benton merchant, dropped dead at breakfast time Saturday morning. Miss Pearl Roberson, daughter of L. C. Jesse Workman, of the Dukedom neighborhood, was called to his door Tuesday night and shot dead by an unknown person. A double barrel shot gun was used. Workman fell at the crack of the gun.

Last Thursday evening, the Entre Nous Club was entertained by Miss Dora Carritt. Rook was played. At a later hour, the young gentlemen arrived. A two course menu, consisting of a salad course and cream and cake, was served.

A party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Val Carpenter Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Grace Threlkeld, with Misses Bonnie Carpenter and Estelle Renou playing the role of hostesses. An appetizing salad course was served, and the occasion thoroughly enjoyed by the following guests: Misses Mary Maddox, Mary Briggs, Laverne Threlkeld, Georgia Burrus, Lillie Hackett, Miriam Luten Christine Luten, Mary Kimbro, Swann Taylor, and Nell Shaw.

Messrs. A. Henderson, McKee Johnson, Dell Choate, Edward Rice, Arnett Henderson, Lon Naylor, Paul Berry, Ben Briggs, Hearn Brown and Dan Briggs.

There's a Reason

For the large and increasing sale of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. When in the need of a cough medicine try it and you will know the reason. 8

Arthur Williams, of near Dorena, has lost two children in the past ten days—Clarence, age 9, and Lawrence, age 5. Both died of pneumonia following a spell of measles. Mr. Williams resides on the Hinshaw farm. The oldest child died Saturday and the little fellow died Wednesday.

An Arithmetic Snake.

An Englishman had one day told an editor several snake stories which made the newspaper man laugh, and then he said as a wind-up:

"I can't call any more to mind just at present. My wife knows a lot of snake stories, but I forget 'em. By the way, though, I've got a regular living curiosity down on my place. One day my eldest boy was sitting on the back step doing his sums, and he couldn't get 'em right. He felt something against his face, and there was a little snake curled up on his shoulder and looking at the slate. In four minutes he had done all those sums. We've tamed him, so he keeps all our accounts, and he is the quickest head at figures you ever saw. He'll run up a column eight feet long in three seconds. I wouldn't take a prize cow for him."

"What kind of a snake is he?" inquired the editor, curiously.

"The neighbors call him an adder," "Oh, yes, yes!" said the editor, a little disconcerted. "I've heard of the species."

"The Club."

An exclusive dining society is the one bearing the arrogant title "The Club," which since its foundation has been limited to thirty-five members. Johnson, Burke, Reynolds and Goldsmith were among the original members. Garrick and Boswell joined in 1772, and Gibbon and Fox in 1774. Of the eighteen premiers in the nineteenth century nine were members of the club. Fox, Liverpool, Canning, Russell, Aberdeen, Gladstone, Salisbury, Lord Rosebery and Mr. Balfour. —London Chronicle.

Reed's Sarcasm.

Senator Lodge, in the Century Magazine, says: "In 1884 I recall coming across Thomas B. Reed one day in State street just after the nomination of Mr. Blaine. The break in the Republican party had begun, and I asked Mr. Reed what he thought of the outlook. 'Well,' he said, 'it is a great comfort to think that the wicked politicians were not allowed to pick the candidates, and that the nomination was made by the people. The politicians would have been guided only by a base desire to win.'"

She Straightened Them.

Mrs. Clark sent the new maid to her room to fetch a pair of scissors. When she returned, which she did after an unaccountably long absence, her mistress asked if she had any trouble in finding them.

"No, ma'am," replied the girl, "but when I got them, they was that bent, no man could use them, so I took them to the kitchen and straightened them out with a flatiron. Here they are, ma'am," and she handed Mrs. Clark her much injured manicure scissors.

J. H. Pickett was in Tiptonville this week, looking after the purchase of a boat to be used in ferry service here. He is operating a ferry now, as is also Mr. Hinshaw. The outcome of the two ferries will be watched with interest.

Mrs. Maddox, of the Dorena neighborhood, lost a residence by fire on Saturday night. We are unable to learn the extent of her damage.

W. J. Bryan Orator at the Y. M. C. A. Dedication

IMPROVEMENTS AT CAPITAL

Personnel of the Court of Appeals Complimented—Crop Prospects—Secretary Bruner on Crookedness of Bank Officials.

Frankfort.—The cornerstone of the splendid new Y. M. C. A. building was laid with the Hon. W. J. Bryan as the orator of the occasion and an attractive program interspersed with music and addresses. Mr. Bryan paid his first visit to Frankfort nearly sixteen years ago.

The Frankfort Y. M. C. A. was organized in 1895, and Col. Charles E. Hoge was the first president and B. B. Wilcox the first secretary. Last year the present secretary, Stanley A. Harris, inaugurated a campaign to raise $35,000 for a new building to be owned and occupied entirely by the Y. M. C. A. The campaign was a successful one. More than $35,000 was raised, and by next year the new structure will be completed and is expected to be an ornament to the capital city.

Don't Believe in Distinction.

Bankers who violate the law will not be permitted to pay the amount of shortage that may be charged against them and then go free of criminal responsibility, declares Dr. Ben L. Bruner, secretary of state, who is in charge of the banks of Kentucky which are incorporated under the state laws. Dr. Bruner says there has been too great an inclination toward immunity from prosecution for the men "high up" who have been caught stealing, where they pay back the money. He declares that the post chief is prosecuted and convicted, never being allowed to settle by paying the amount he took. The secretary can not see why any distinction should be made between the poor man who steals and the rich man who embezzles.

What is more to the point, the secretary proposes to see to it that the banker who steals is prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law and not allowed to escape by a cash settlement.

Cramped For Funds.

The members of the board of control say that the state does not provide enough money to care properly for the state insane and feeble-minded and that they are constantly cramped by lack of funds. The next legislature may be asked to remedy this and increase the allowance for each ward. The board has been working especially hard to make the institute for the feeble-minded more of a success than it has been. Manual training has been installed and has been found to work to great advantage. Then a farm has been added and the boys will be given out-door work and it is expected that this will improve their physical condition as well as teach them to be useful citizens.

Honor for McKenzie Todd.

McKenzie R. Todd, state inspector and examiner, has been invited to deliver an address before the joint session of the Illinois legislature on behalf of the bill appropriating money for the erection of the memorial at Put-in-Bay in honor of the victory of Perry on Lake Erie. Mr. Todd appeared before the appropriation committee of the two houses of the Illinois legislature several weeks since and made such a favorable impression that the backers of the Perry centennial want Mr. Todd to talk to the whole legislature before the bill is offered for passage. Mr. Todd has accepted the invitation.

Things Agricultural.

Cold weather and rains have materially interfered with farm work, but farmers are well up with their work and are not grumbling about the delay. Early oats are coming up nicely and wheat is shooting out with promise of good yield.

Prospects are good for a large yield of bluegrass seed. Young tobacco plants are up and growing nicely and will be ready for early setting if the weather is favorable.

Early fruit, such as plums and peaches, are injured, but it looks now as if there would be a bumper crop of apples.

Redistricting of State.

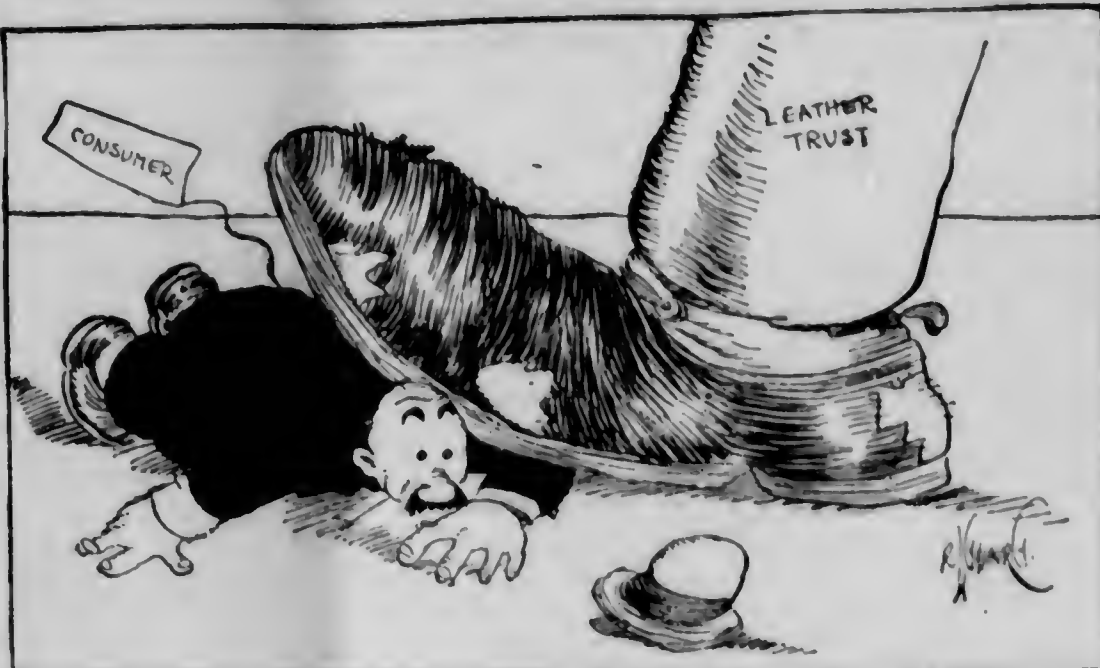

If Gov. Wilson calls an extra session of the legislature he will include in the call only the redistricting of the state. He believes that a redistricting measure can be put through both houses in 10 days, and that the expense ought not to be more than $15,000.

To Light Approach.

The capitol commission took up the matter of lighting the approach to the capitol and looked at cuts illustrating various kinds of ornamental standards. The commission decided not to buy any standards now, but the governor will inspect standards used on public buildings while in the east. The other members of the commission will also investigate the question of lighting and at a subsequent meeting will decide what kind of poles, or standards, for the electric lights will be used on the approach.

The U. D. C. will meet Tuesday afternoon, May 9th, at 3 o'clock with Miss Marie Brevard.

Lyric Theatre Saturday night.

Trust Greed Dominates Tanning Industry

Shoe Wearers Must Pay More for Poorer Leather

How You Can Protect Yourself

The shoe business of this country is absolutely controlled by the Leather Trust.

The Trust owns the tanneries which produce about four-fifths of all the leather in America.

It fixes the price of leather with an eye single to its own profits—which is the one reason for the high price of shoes.

It has recently closed scores of its tanneries for an indefinite period, to create an artificially high price for leather.

Worse than that—the Leather Trust is deliberately using its vast resources to cheapen its product for the sake of extortionate profits.

Most Shoe Makers Cannot Get Honest Leather

Buying his leather from the Trust, the ordinary manufacturer is forced to take an inferior product—hemlock tannage, chemical tannage, or other quick process tannages—everything but straight old-fashioned oak tannage, thoroughly tanned and finished to give it the backbone that leather must have to make a good shoe.

You know what to expect of the average shoes you buy—how good they look at the start and how soon they break down—

Holes in soles. Heels run down. Vamps stretched and cracked. Uppers wrinkled. Finish rubbed off beyond all hope of dressing and polishing.

Now, what can you, John Smith, resident of this town and reader of this paper, do about it?

How to Protect Yourself

You can wear honest shoes if you want them—and at a fair price.

You can get shoes made by the only shoe concern in the world that tans its own leather.

The only shoe manufacturers in this country that tan, manufacture and sell independent of the Hide Trust, the Leather Trust, the Leather Jobber and the Shoe Jobber.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. is the name of this concern.

They buy their hides in the open markets of the world. They have the only complete shoe-manufacturing plant in the world—"from the hide to your foot."

They are the largest shoe manufacturers in the world—thanks to their policy of honest shoes and their saving the shoe wearer four profits in the price.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. started in the shoe business with the fixed idea of service to the wearer. It was the extreme unreliability of Trust-tanned leather that forced them to build their own tanneries.

Leather Tanned for Service

At this writing they are tanning 1750 sides of the finest sole leather every day. 3000 sides of chrome upper leather and 1000 skins of calf leather.

The product of their tanneries is worth Six Million Dollars every year.

Every lot of leather is tanned and finished for a definite type of shoe, to make it durable in the kind of service that will be demanded of it.

They tan honest old-fashioned "Forest Oak" sole leather—like the village tanner used to make when our fathers were boys. Months in the tan vat—weeks more in the seasoning and the finishing. Tough, compact, durable.

They make "Kromelk"—the first and only perfected chrome-tanned sole leather, that outwears ordinary soles, two for one.

Leather Trust Cannot Make "Kromelk"

No other manufacturer in the world can give you "Kromelk" soles. The "Kromelk" process is an Endicott-Johnson invention. It is their exclusive property. The Leather Trust has never succeeded in imitating it.

They produce elastic, "glove" calf leather and chrome-tanned uppers—leather that works up to a marvel, finishes to a dot—makes a stylish shoe and holds its style.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. make five hundred styles and models of shoes—all in a full range of sizes.

Their most popular line is the ENDWELL (Goodyear Welt)—dress and business shoes that retail for $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

They make lines that sell for more money—and still other lines at a lower price.

You can buy Endicott-Johnson shoes for men, women and children—shoes for business and street wear, work shoes, dress shoes, school shoes for boys and girls.

You will get all the latest fashions of fashion. Endicott, Johnson & Co. employ the finest designers and shoe makers in the trade.

You Save Four Profits

You will save 50 cents to $1.00 on every pair of shoes you buy. You pay no profits to trusts or middlemen. Endicott, Johnson & Co. sell their shoes direct from the factory to your representative home dealer.

Go to him and ask for the ENDWELL shoes or any other kind of shoe to suit your needs. They will give you some new ideas about shoe values.

Remember the name. It is stamped on every shoe—

ENDWELL

In Memoriam.

The Death Angel visited the home of George and Clara Blawie and took from them their only darling baby, Little Pearl.

She was born Dec. 19, 1908, and died April 11, 1911, age 3 years 3 months and 23 days.

Little Pearl died of pneumonia. Everything that loving hands could do was done, but God saw best to take her to bloom in Paradise. We miss her little feet, sweet voice as she ran and called for mamma and papa. The little golden curls will be seen no more for they are resting in the little white casket. The little voice is forever still. She has gone where there is no parting, no sickness and death. Papa and mamma weep not for Little Pearl, for she has gone home to live with the Angels. Put all your trust in God and it will not be long until we go and meet her in the bright land, where she is waiting and watching for you.

This lovely bud so young and fair called home by early doom, just came to show how sweet a flower in paradise would bloom. —Grandma

Ellison Sets the Pace.

Ellison Bros. have a reputation of keeping right up with the pace of modern merchandising. It would seem that it is their intention to maintain this reputation. Those who have the pleasure of shopping in the large department stores of the big cities know that each one of these establishments operate a soda fountain on the main floor for the benefit of their customers; it has become a necessity. Now come Ellison Bros. with the same proposition. They will install this week a handsome soda fountain in their department store, where the very best in the "mixological" art can be procured. It's a new thing in Hickman, but why shouldn't it be a good thing, if it proves to be such in larger towns?

If there is no blizz in installing the fixtures, the firm expects to treat its friends and patrons to free drinks, etc., tomorrow. See their advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

160 Lots Sold.

The sale in Dodge's Addition No. 2, exclusively for negroes, was pulled off Monday in good shape. Of the 233 lots, something over 160 were sold. When the remaining lots are disposed of, the Nelson brick house will be given away to some of the lot purchasers—and this feature proved to be quite a drawing card. Besides this, Mr. Dodge gave one dollar to some church for each lot sold, the church to which it was given being left to the option of the purchaser. All the lots in Addition No. 1 have been sold, and we predict it will only be a short time until the second addition is sold. It takes 8. L. to work up something new.

Southern Literature

The following very interesting paper was read recently by Mrs. T. A. ... at a meeting of the local chapter U. D. C., and its perusal will be enjoyed by many of our readers.

It is passing strange that there are but few Americans of culture who have any knowledge of Southern Literature.

While Europe gives first place to the South in the development of colonial literature, and the creation of a literature distinctly American, ... Washington, Marshall, Jefferson, Madison, Calhoun and other Southern statesmen in the same class with Burke, Fox and the Pitts, in their literary value as well as in their character-treasures the poetry of Lanier and other poets of the South as the best in American poetry, ... with first place as a teller of tales, with other Southerners of almost equal rank as imaginative writers while Europe, at a distance, ... weighs our literature, the American, north, east, west, yes, even south, is in ignorance of the best in the literature of his own country.

His knowledge of Southern letters is confined to Poe. He is not aware that there is any Southern literature aside from the stories and poems of this master.

Teach your child the poetry and stories of his native land and you may exile him, but he will not forget his early home.

Take our public schools. We have Longfellow, Bryant and Whittier days—and this is commendable, but do we also have some day set apart for Lanier, Timrod, Tichnor or Hayne? In our public school children even know the names of these Southern poets?

A professor of one of the schools said: "I know but little about Southern literature, and I have learned that little since I left school. All the schools I attended were intensely Southern, yet had no place in their curriculum for Southern authors, and Southern writers had no exponents. They taught plenty of good white, some thought from Greece, Rome, Great Britain and our northern states but seldom even a poem from a Southern writer, yet the South had before the war 241 writers." (Prof. McIntire, Bryant, Texas.)

What more patriotic work could engage the daughters of the Confederacy than to induce a love for their works and a study of the authors, many of whom were Confederate soldiers?

Let our children learn with pride that "the first history of American literature was not in New England, but along the sands of the Chesapeake and near the tides of the James river."

Teach them that when Irving and Cooper were writing their interesting books, John Pendleton Kennedy, of Baltimore, a Southern friend and comrade of Irving, and William Gilmore

Simms, of South Carolina, were telling equally well the stories of the South.

We labor to erect shafts of marble and granite to our soldiers and this is a sacred privilege—could we not build as lasting a monument to such Confederate warriors as Sydney Lanier, Paul Hamilton Hayne, Henry Timrod, Joel Chandler Harris, Dr. Francis Tichnor, William Gordon McCabe, Thomas Nelson Page and Father Ryan, by impressing with imperishable love, their beautiful writings upon the hearts of our Southern children?

Would you inspire a feeling of patriotism in the heart of your boy, read to him a few verses of "Cato's Song" by Henry Timrod, the Southern post-soldier, who, dying, left the stain of his chiding life-blood on the last proof of his book of poems.

And where will we find more impassioned patriotism than in Father Ryan's "In Memoriam"?

The beautiful poem, "Virginius of the Vale," has been anonymously copied in many northern papers, and posted in many scrapbooks in the South, without any knowledge that it was written by Dr. Tichnor, the scholarly physician and Southern patriot, who never struck his lyre for gold or fame.

Would you cultivate in your child love for his own hills and dunes? Then read to him "The Old Red Hills of Georgia," by Henry Reed Jackson, another gallant Confederate soldier:

"And where upon their surface,
Is the heart of feeling dead?
Or when has needy stranger
Gone from those hills unfed?
Their bravery and their kindness
For aye go hand in hand
Upon your washed and naked hills,
My own, my native land."

Or read him the companion piece, "Land of the South," by Alexander Mack, another soldier:

"Land of the South, imperial land,
How proud thy mountains rise!
How sweet thy scenes on every hand!
How fair thy covering skies!
But not for this, O, not for these
I love thy fields to roam,
Thou hast a dearer spell for me,
Thou art my native home."

Ask the teachers who have your children's mind and heart in their shaping hands to read to them "McDonald's Hail," and the "Battle of Kings," both written by the soldier and poet, Paul Hamilton Hayne, or the poem "The Battle of King's Mountain," by Wm. Gilmore Simms.

Do you wish a story for your little ones at the twilight hour, or around the fireside after supper? Then read to your children the exquisite poem "Little Nellie in Prison," by Paul Hamilton Hayne, then leave their young hearts beautifully tender by reading "The Silken Shoe," by the same author.

When the children are asleep, you can enoble your own soul by reading "The Aspect of the Pine," "Fire Pictures," "The Voice in the Pine," "The First Mocking Bird in Spring," or any of the poems in the splendid volume of 400 pages written at Copas Hill, near Augusta, Ga., where Paul Hamilton Hayne labored for fifteen years after the war which beggared him, to keep the wolf from the door.

These are only gleanings from a fund of Southern literature almost inexhaustible.

Is there not a work of magnificent recognition and graceful commemoration awaiting the active hand and heart of every daughter of the Confederacy? A work that will even outlive marble shaft or granite monument.

"I have spent much study and thought on the Southern literature of the ante-bellum days, and later period, and have yet to find one line pure word, one repulsive thought, or low tendency. Can we say as much for all of our present literature, or of the modern poem and novel?" (Mrs. Kate Ugin, Texas.)

Fulton County Sunday School Association will hold its annual convention on Tuesday, May 9, 1911, at Union (C. P.) Church. Every Sunday School in the county SHOULD be represented by one or more delegates who will answer to roll call. The Hickman Gun Club's big third annual tournament this year will be conducted on the "Squire Money-back System," which, in substance, means that every shooter in a squad will participate in the money. This will be a bonanza for fellows like your Uncle Fuller, who couldn't hit a flock of hares, because they will get "them" anyhow regardless of the track shots.

In an effort to discover the identity of the members of the mob which lynched Jacob McDowell, a negro, in Webster County, several years ago, Gov. Willson offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of each member of the mob. Possibly the state could pay some of its debts if it were not for Willson catering so much to the negro vote.

THE END OF TUBERCULOSIS

The Business of Sitting Out.

By LOUIS HAMMAN, M. D.

You must address yourself to the task of sitting outdoors day after day most faithfully. You must make it your constant occupation and stick to it as though you were paid money for it. If you do not get the idea of continuous rest firmly set in your mind you will not succeed. By rest I mean lying down in a bed or chair in the fresh air. You are not to spend any time in a closed room except when bathing or dressing or eating. Rest all the time. Take no exercise or work until your doctor tells you no walking, no standing, no running, no riding, no driving, no housework, no office work, no chores, no trips, no visits, no knocking about, no odd jobs, no exertion of any kind. Put yourself at rest in the open air after breakfast and stay there. Do not be forever jumping up and doing little things about the house or fetching and carrying. Every morning sit out; every afternoon sit out; every evening after supper sit out or lie in your outdoor bed.

There will be preaching at Spring Valley Church the first Lord's day in May. All members are asked to be present.—W. L. King.

REVERIES

It is a fact which mathematics cannot explain, that the more affection we leave at home the more we carry with us.

Never let a grievance stand over night, better sacrifice your pride than your peace of mind.

Never think you can afford to be dowdy at home. Cleanliness, hair well dressed, and a smile will make calico look like silk in the eyes of a father or brother.

Love is the great homemaker, that makes even the drudgery of house-keeping a pleasure, and home life a foretaste of the bliss of heaven. One cannot get too much love into one's homemaking, but easily too little.

It seems to be difficult in this world for men and women to keep a middle course. For one it is all saving and working, for another all spending and shirking. And neither is happy. Lifeless has as many miseries as overwork. It is only those lives in which labor and leisure are united that are truly happy. The middle course is the right course.

Man can build the house and roof it in, a resistance against the storms and elements, but the man with all his genius and artizan science can not make the home; that ever has and ever will be the task of woman. It is she alone that can bring to it warmth and beauty. Here she reigns supreme.

The children who are accustomed to seeing their mother with her hair becomingly arranged and in a pretty gown, and who are themselves compelled while young to pay attention to little details of cleanliness and dress, will never grow up into slovenly men and women.

Success in life does not always mean wealth, fame or position. You may be poor in all of these but you can be rich in mind and character. The world within you must be developed before you can enjoy the world without you. If you have wealth put some of it into brain power and you can never lose it. If you are poor you cannot afford to be poor in both mind and pocket. You can have the wealth of a trained mind and a noble character.

Condemn your children only when they are really wrong, and then as gently as possible, but be sure to commend them when they do right. A little praise with a child goes a long way. A child may be very provoking, but not wilfully bad. Attributing bad motives to a thoughtless child has ruined many a little life.

Just blame less and praise more, and we shall have better children. Especially as most of their faults are copied from their parents, we should exercise the strictest charity, for verily "Charity doth cover a multitude of sins."

There is no earthly tie so strong or so sacred as that of motherhood. Society is held together by social ties. Civic societies are bound by money and oaths. These obligations are like girths of steel, yet one hold like the marriage bond when inviolated and unpolluted by vile theories.

"It's only mother; anything will do for her." If the words are not often actually expressed, the thought is too often acted upon. And yet if we stop to think, common decency tells us that only the best is good enough for mother—that her devotion, which surpasses all other love, is deserving of the deepest respect and affection, and that to forget her is the blackest and basest crime that man can commit.

Tired mothers! Always anxious, ever scheming, planning how they can manage their detail of domestic life with least expense; for children are such a drain upon the resources of one's time, heart and pocket. The mothers doing double work, triple work themselves, to save for this or that, until the nerves are strained and shattered to a degree unbearable to themselves, and particularly offensive to others.

There is very little difference between a prisoner and an automobile owner—both are known by their number instead of by their names and are always an object of suspicion among the police.

No town can have too much street illumination, at least no town ever has too much. Sufficient street lighting is a preserver of morals and does effective police duty. We would urge Hickman authorities to consider the question of more adequate street lighting. We need it for mutual welfare.

Mengel Does Things.

The Mengel Box Company does things in the proper style.

A few weeks ago they purchased a 10,000 acre tract of timber about 55 miles below Hickman at what is known as Craig's Landing, which timber will be used at their Hickman plants. A logging railroad and complete outfit of logging machinery, consisting of locomotives, logging cars, skidders and loaders, will be used in moving this timber to the bank of the river. This equipment is at Hickman ready to be moved to this tract as soon as the river gets back to its normal stage.

Instead of the usual way of taking care of the men and stock by erecting houses and barns, the men and stock will be taken care of in what is known as a camp train. This camp train will consist of dining cars, sleepers and sitting cars for the whites and a like equipment for negroes, the stock will also be quartered in cars built for this purpose, and the office will also be on wheels. Water for man and beast will be handled and carried in two large tank cars, making a total of 19 cars in the train. These cars have a capacity of 60,000 pounds and are now enroute to Hickman. As soon as the cars arrive at this branch, they will be converted into sleepers, diners, etc., and then will be transferred to the tract of timber with the other equipment.

By having this kind of equipment, the men are always right with the work as the camp train is moved from one part of the tract to the other as the work moves along. This is a great advantage over the old style way of taking care of men and stock in logging on a large track of land.

In the beginning there will be built seven and a half miles of railroad and the building will continue until all the timber has been moved.

OPENS CAMPAIGN

Congressman Ollie M. James
Delivers Opening Address
at Nicholasville

LARGE CROWD HEARS ORATOR

Address Was in Interest of His Candidacy for the United States Senatorship in Race Against Senator Paynter.

Nicholasville, Ky.—Congressman Ollie M. James, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator against Senator T.
H. Paynter, opened his campaign in this city Monday. The largest crowd in the history of Jessamine county was in town to hear the big orator of Western Kentucky. After an introduction
by Senator B. M. Arnest, Mr. James
spoke as follows:

Senator Paynter states that he did not undertake to take any action relative to bill-keeping members of the State Executive Committee about calling a primary or taking any action relative to selecting nominees for the United States Senate. He says he thought any action they should take would be with a view of conserving the best interests of the party. As to whether he undertook any action or not, it is a fact well known to the people of Kentucky that every close personal friend of his, together with the Democrats from the district in which he lives or did live, voted against including the race in the primary, and after a primary had been ordered for all State officers the United States Senatorship was excluded from the primary in direct violation of Democratic doctrine, and platform promises for almost a quarter of a century.

The Senator still sat silent as he says, I presume still believing, "that any action taken would be with a view to conserving the best interests of his party." And yet, he must have known, and I charge that he did know, that such action as this was reactionary and undemocratic and was standing Democratic hopes to the very heart.
And yet, he remained silent, still believing, as he tells us, that the action
the committee should take would be to best "conserve the interests of the party." Senator Paynter has never favored a primary election, and today he dragged unwillingly before the thousand electorate of the Commonwealth to submit his claims for their confidence and approval and his candidacy to their arbitrament. Senator Payn-ter was not the choice of the people of Kentucky when he was elected to the Senate; he is not the choice of the people of Kentucky now. I believe I am well within the bounds of reason and truth when I say that Senator Paynter could not have polled, when he was elected to the Senate, more than one vote out of five in Kentucky
against Senator Blackburn.

But the Senator dodges the proposition
when he states it is unnecessary to state
what his preference was as to the nomination of the candidates for state officers and the United States Senate. Senator, I am no mind reader, but I know your preference as the people of Kentucky know what it is. There was a time when it was necessary for you to act. When Democratic platforms were being transplanted upon and Democratic issues were being perverted you remained silent.

I was told quite frequently at Louisville,
when the committee and the time before the last that the primary call was not in proper form and that it must be absolutely legally drawn because Senator Paynter intended to institute a suit in the courts enjoining the holding of the senatorial primary; that it would not be done by him openly, but by some other person who really would be acting in his interest and that it would be done
because that Senator Paynter knew nothing about it; that a primary was entirely satisfactory to him.

My Record.
Senator Paynter says in his card of announcement that I am a member of the great committee of the House and the people of the state can not afford to ignore my services from the House, and that I will still remain a member of the House during his term as senator. The Senator doubts how a right of the fact that the term of congress for which I am elected expires at the same time that the senatorial office which he holds expires and of course the statement that I would remain a member of Congress is outrage and made by the Senator either for the purpose of deceiving the people of Kentucky or without the knowledge of the fact that a member of congress is only elected for two years. It is infamous to know that after serving eight years in the House in trying times, when greed and oppression were battering at the very entrance, when liberty, great and corrupt, were crowding every hall, when measures affecting the public interests were many and complex, that my opponent can not find one flaw
in my record and was forced to argue a reason why I should not be sent to the Senate. I had proved too faithful in the House. No greater tribute could I pay me, no greater compliment would I seek than the admission that the eye of the critic and the enemy could find no fault and he was forced to this admission. And yet this argument simply means that to prove worthy of a trust to be denied greater trust; to prove capable is not to be untried, and to prove faithful is not to find reward.

People of Kentucky can well say, "We want the services of such a man who has risen so high and holds such a prominent position in the ranks of his party to set for the whole state; for the good of the rest of the state why circumscribe the services of such a man to the narrow limits of a single district, why not let such good services come to all Kentucky alike?" The argument the Senator makes that because a member of congress has been capable and worthy and prominent in the house, he should be kept there, would have kept James B. Heck
in the house, would have kept John J.
Crittenden representing a district, would have kept John C. Carlisle acting for the sixth Kentucky district, would have kept John C. Breckenridge in the house and Joseph C. Blackburn representing the "chickadee" district. While the Senator addresses this argument to the people of the whole state, it is the only one in my judgment, by which the Senator could have ever been elected to the Senate, and I believe for that reason he has chosen to use it. While my own district might demand that I should remain in the house, it delights me beyond expression to know that I am supported by the Democrats of that great district as no other candidate presented by it has been within my knowledge. They are unselfish enough, they are generous enough to support me in the ambition to represent the whole Commonwealth, including themselves, in the United States Senate.

Never Had a Senator.
The First congressional district of Kentucky is the Gibraltar Democratic district of our state. It furnishes 10,000 to 15,000 majority on election day. It is the only work to which Democracy looks in the time of battle, and yet this great district has never been honored in all the history of the Democratic party for more than a hundred years with the selection of one of her sons as the nominee of the Democratic party. The district in which Senator Paynter now lives has furnished

a United States senator from Kentucky for three-fourths of the time since Kentucky was admitted into the Union. And I submit to a fair democracy that it is only just that the great Democratic majority of the state should for one time in more than a century be given the nomination as the standard-bearer of the Democratic party for the United States senatorship. We have given you our votes in all the struggles for all these years without complaint. We submit to the fairness of the people of this district that what is more than reasonable. It is true I am a member of the great committee upon Ways and Means, the first Democrat to hold the place from Kentucky since the disfranchisement of the colored people and of Montgomery fought my way to the front bearing the standard banner of the people's rights. If I have endeavored myself in my colleagues it was because I was a Democrat and a lover of the rights of men, a believer in justice to all humanity, and that I bore no whitewash brushes nor flag of truce to the Republican party.

Appreciates Paynter's Compliment.
While I appreciate greatly the high compliment my unwilling opponent pays me in saying that I ought to be kept in the house, that the people can not spare me from the forum, I can not say for him that he ought to be kept in the senate. The senate today is the one room sanctuary which the sick of the people for relief breathe. It is the last stand of democracy; it is the rendezvous of the vested interests; it is the lair of corporate greed. The people of Kentucky need one who will fight for them, one who is their friend and not their foe.

The Democrats of the Senate Repudiate Paynter.
Senator Paynter asks the Democrats of Kentucky to approve his record, and yet with a shirking that is almost shameless he fails to call attention to those parts of his political record which have brought him into the white light of public attention. He asks the people of Kentucky to

HER REVENGE

"What did Jimson say when they told him his mother-in-law had gone to bed, after her quarrel with him, and left the gas turned on in her room?"

"He growled that she'd never have done it if she hadn't realized that he would have to pay for the gas."

SUREST THING

Political Orator—There are too many rich men in politics.

Politician—I've done all I could to make 'em spend their money.

Miss Maggie Henry left Sunday for Bowling Green to attend school. She will be gone six weeks.

Whether you do or do not want furniture, call and see us—Hickman Furniture Co.

A Common Nuisance.

Dear Mr. Editor: A lady wants to say a few words to the grocery merchants, and it is really a delicate matter to handle. You know it is now time when our grocery men set their vegetables out on the pavements, and—you know there are so many dogs in town and—and it operates as if they drank from Saratoga Medical Springs. Now, Mr. Editor, you must know what I want to say, and if you will help me out you will do the public a favor. What we want is the vegetables set on boxes, or in other words, above high-water mark for the good of mankind. These wire screens they use over baskets is a delicate matter; you know when and barrels are not water-tight. This is a delicate matter, but know when the ladies go shopping for cabbage and beets, they don't like to be obliged to take peas also. Please put in shape so as to offend nobody.

"The girl who can wash her stockings after getting ready for bed and have them dry and nice as new to put on the next morning, can be trusted with a diamond ring before marriage."—Todd Co., Times. Probably true, but it might be more in accordance with the eternal fitness of things to present her with an extra pair of stockings instead of a diamond ring.

The case of the Mayfield Woolen Mills, a bankrupt, against W. A. Usher for $90,000, was compromised before trial in the U. S. court at Paducah Tuesday. Usher is said to have paid $13,000 and all court costs, amounting to $2500.

Misses Dora Smith and Virginia Luten left Wednesday for Bowling Green to attend a convention of county superintendents. They will be gone until about Sunday.

Why We Said It.

We said in last week's Courier that Hickman should have fifty more factories, and named a few that could operate here to good advantage. They were figured on from a business standpoint and on a business basis. Sooner or later we will have them. Why? Because—

FIRST—Harring the Iron and Steel we have all the raw material necessary to manufacture of every article we named.

SECOND—We are on the direct line to the Iron Fields of Tennessee and Alabama with a freight rate that will justify its manufacture in Hickman.

THIRD—We have the Railroad facilities for shipping and the locations for manufacturers along the railroads equalled by few towns and these factory sites are offered FREE.

FOURTH—We have the Mississippi River as a permanent guarantee of a minimum freight rate both in and out of Hickman, enjoyed by but few towns in America.

FIFTH—Hickman is located in the heart of as rich country locally as the sun shines on and its geographical location makes it the logical commercial center of a vast outlying territory. A most astonishing fact is, that within a radius of 500 miles of Hickman, Ky., there are located approximately 25,000,000 people or about one-third of the population of the United States. This 500 miles circle affords Hickman Manufacturers and Mercantile Companies trade advantages almost unparalleled in America. Consequently, Hickman is certain to draw capital and population very rapidly from older and less favorably located cities throughout the country, which will go into the development of this already rapidly growing city.

SIXTH—With the completion of the Panama Canal, Hickman will hold a position of strategic importance equal to that of any of the great commercial centers and far superior to most. Hickman therefore is destined to become one of the principal gateways to the most rapidly developing sections of the American continent, (the South and West) as well as to foreign countries for it holds an advantage that neither time nor circumstance can ever displace.

The chance is yours—it is up to you to make the start.

A GOOD REASON.

Hickman People Can Tell You Why It is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Hickman people testify to permanent cures.

A. P. Overby, of Hickman, Ky., says: "For two or three months I was troubled by disordered kidneys. I had dull pains in the small of my back and whenever I stooped or lifted sharp twinges caused me much misery. At night the ache in my back greatly disturbed my rest and I arose in the morning feeling tired and languid. Nervous spells bothered me and the sediment in the kidney secretions proved that my kidneys needed attention. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at Helm & Ellison's Drug Store and in three days they relieved me. It required but one-half the contents of the box to effect a complete cure. I am glad to say that this cure has been permanent and I, therefore, have no hesitation in allowing you to publish my statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Speaking of the Tennessee Congressmen who left the state to prevent the passage of certain laws, the News-Banner, at Union City, says by way of illustration: "What if part of the county court, if there was a vote about to be taken that displeased some of their royal highnesses, should flee to Hickman? Would the end justify the means? There's a difference: The transient members can always be depended upon to return from Alabama, but if your county court should ever come to Hickman on a filibuster, its 9 to 1 they would never be willing to return."

For porch furniture, the Hickman Furniture Co. is the place.

You Want a Suit That's Different

Different from the ordinary. Not different because of eccentric style or freakish fabrics, but different because better. It is the difference of quality and of accurate cutting that makes these W. S. Peck & Co. clothes desirable. There is a stamp of excellence and thoroughness of workmanship which proclaims sterling honesty and real skill on the part of the manufacturers.

"But the price," you say, "how about the price?" Well, here is an idea of the values:

$20.00

But you ought to know that prices mean very little until you see, feel and find out by contact just what the values are.

Therefore we say, come and find out.

About It.

"George, dear, I've got a diary and made up my mind to keep it."
"All right, my love. It's a habit that sever becomes chronic. The diary is slit-edged, I suspect?"

"Yes, dear, and with a lovely limp
morocco cover."

"And it matches your new walking suit, of course?"

"Why, how did you know that? And it has a sweet little pencil in a cunning groove."

"Charming. There's a calendar inside, no doubt?"

"Yes, dear. And there's a page about foreign postage and things."

"Great! And a list of the wedding suits, is that right, from 'soothing sirup' to diamond?"

"Yes, George. And the language of flowers and birthstones."

"Fine. And the code of handkerchief flirtations, no doubt?"

"Certainly not. Now you're making fun of me. It's really a dear little book.
Of course I could exchange it."

"Exchange it. Exchange a diary?"

"Why, yes. You see, I won it at bridge whilst at Mrs. Dummiegh's, and it's so nice I think I'll keep it."

"But don't you intend to write in it?"

"Write in it! Why, I never thought of that!"

HOW WILLIE WON THE PRIZE

He Got the $5, Even Though His Ideas Differed From the Teacher's.

Little Willie, having only one eye,
did not like to attend school, says Mack's National Monthly. One afternoon he stayed home, and his mother sent him to the store for a loaf of bread. On the way back he stopped at the school. The examiners were there to award a prize of five dollars in gold
to the smartest boy or girl in the class.
Just as Willie entered the teacher held up one finger. Then Willie held up two fingers. This time she held up three fingers, and Willie held up his fist.
She held up an apple, and Willie held up the loaf of bread. She called him to the desk and gave him the five dollars.
The examiners inquired of the teacher
why she had awarded the prize to Willie. She replied:

"I held up one finger, meaning there is one Supreme Being. He held up two, meaning the starting of the race, Adam and Eve. I held up three fingers, meaning Faith, Hope and Charity. He held up his fist, meaning in unity there is strength. I held up an apple, meaning the downfall of man. He held up the bread, meaning the staff of life. Then I give him the prize."

The Courier's Weekly Sermon

by PASTOR RUSSELL

SUBJECT

MORE DEAD FLIES

IN THE PRECIOUS OINTMENT.

Pastor Russell Points Out More Deceptive Additions to the Word of God
Contained in Our Common Version Bibles, but Shown to Be False Because Not Found in the Oldest Greek MS.—One of These "Flies" Has Mouldered Accepted Theology—Dead
Flies Cause the Apothecary's Ointment to Stink.—Ecclesiastes 10:1.

Not long ago I pointed out that the last twelve verses of St. Mark's Gospel, in our Common Version, are spurious—so recognized by all scholars, because these verses are not to be found in any of the oldest Greek MSS. and were evidently added to the Word of God in the Seventh Century or later. Moreover, we gave proofs of the untruthfulness of this addition. Is it true that whoever believes the Gospel of Christ may handle serpents with impunity and may drink deadly poison without harm? Surely not. It is nothing short of a sin for those who know better to acknowledge these verses and to use them to bolster up theories of Divine Healing. It is as much a crime to add to the Word of God as to take away from it.

Today I invite attention to some other "dead flies," some other additions to God's Word, which have had much to do with twisting the theology once delivered to the saints. Take, for instance, the closing words of the Lord's Prayer:

"Thine is the Kingdom and Power and Glory."

These words, if uttered by our Lord, should be found in the old Greek MSS. But they are not found therein. They are, therefore, to be rejected as additions made by people centuries after Matthew's Gospel was written. These words were introduced when the faith of the Church respecting the Kingdom of Messiah was changed or changing from what it was originally.

All through the New Testament the second coming of Christ in power and glory to establish His Kingdom and to glorify the Church, His Bride, is set for the end of this Gospel Age. But as the time grew long a change of sentiment came into the Church. It became popular and rich. Its bishops were respected. Finally the theory prevailed that God did not intend to delay the establishment of the Kingdom until the second coming of Christ, but did intend to establish it in the hands of the Church during this Age and to use the Church for the conquering of the world and the fulfilling of all the promises of the past.

In line with this the most prominent bishop of the time was recognized as Divinely appointed to represent Christ in the world and to reign over the nations in his stead and to bring about the Messianic reign, etc. This was the Bishop of Rome, who subsequently was styled the Pope and who claimed and was accorded the honorable title, "Viceroy of the Son of God." It is said that the equivalent of this title is worn to this day by the Pope on his tiara, or three-crowned hat.—Vicarius Dei Fili

"Thy Kingdom Come on Earth."
The Lord's prayer was already in the Scriptures, and was known to many. It could not be eliminated. But some zealous person, fully believing that God's Kingdom had come, felt justified in amending the prayer to correspond writes Mrs. Ethel Newlin, of Liberty Center, Ind., "that I began to take Cardui, for it has cured me, and I will never forget it."

"I Am Glad"

"I cannot praise Cardui too highly for what it did for me. Before I began to take it, I was very bad color, suffered great pain and weighed only 105 pounds. Now I have a good color, do not suffer and weigh 125 lbs."

It is perfectly safe and harmless, for use by old

taken, as a tonic, for months, without any possible harmful effect. Try it.

STIVE STAHR
BOTH PHONES

to what he supposed were the facts.
Hence the prayer which begins, "Thy Kingdom come," is made to end by saying, "Thy Kingdom has come in its glory and power."

How glad we are to see the Truth on this subject: that the Kingdom of God's dear Son has not yet been set up in any sense of the word that it is still future. It cannot be set up until this Gospel Age ends and the "elect" an-titype of every nation, Jew and Gentile, shall be changed from earthly to heavenly nature by the First Resurrection, which will qualify them to be kings and priests unto God and unto Christ and to reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation xx, 1).

It is well that all Bible students should mark this "fly" and extract it from the Precious Ointment and notice how much sweeter and fresher the Lord's prayer is to them forever.

"Oh, What a Whopper!"

Who cannot sympathize with the great infidel Thomas Paine, who when reading the last verse of St. John's Gospel, exclaimed, "Oh, what a whopper!" It reads, "And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one I suppose that even the world it self could not contain the books that should be written" (John xvi, 25).

Surely anyone of reasoning mind should see the absurdity of such a statement. Surely all Christian ministers should have informed the Lord's sheep under their care respecting what is and what is not the Word of God
the Bible as it was recognized by the Apostolic Church and written down in the original Greek MSS. Why any Christian minister should assail me because I endeavor to do for the people what he has neglected to do I cannot understand. I must leave it to the Lord to judge between us.

I want Higher Criticism and accept the Word of God in full. I reject nothing because of my own or other men's surmises, but merely go by the facts.
If the oldest Greek MSS do not contain certain passages of Scripture, how could they get into later MSS, except as spurious additions?
